

APPROACHING ART AND ARTISANS

Interdisciplinary workshop on the social history of artists, artisans and their organisations in late medieval and early modern Europe

Date: 26 April 2013

Location: University of Antwerp, City Campus, R.011

The Centre for Urban History in Antwerp (www.ua.ac.be/CSG) and the Social History of the Artist Research Centre in Trier (www.tak.uni-trier.de) have joined forces to organize an interdisciplinary workshop on the social history of artists in late medieval and early modern Europe. Both research groups can build upon a broad range of experience in research regarding arts, crafts, public performance and knowledge circulation, although they often address these subjects from different angles. Confronting and discussing the various approaches used in recent research projects of both groups might lead to new insights and to rethinking one's own ideas.

The aim of the workshop is to explore, in an informal way, new approaches and forms of cooperation between these two centres and beyond. Through a number of short presentations, comments and discussions, both research groups — and especially their young fellows — will reflect upon their ongoing research before an international (expert) public. Specific topics include apprenticeship and guilds, public performances, material culture, and migration, but the ultimate aim is an intense debate and an exchange of ideas across disciplines and approaches.

Anyone interested is of course welcome to join the meeting, which will take place on 26 April 2013 at the University of Antwerp (room: R.011). As places are limited, please register with annelies.debie@ua.ac.be before 16 April 2013. Admission is free of charge.
